This document describes the terms and conditions for obtaining and maintaining ATP accreditation.

2. Training Partner Benefits

Acceptance into this program enables Ruckus ATPs to generate additional revenue from training and certification activities.

Potential training partners include Ruckus distributors and resellers who have training facilities and/or an interest in delivering Ruckus training. Independent network technology training providers may also qualify as training partners.

3. Terms and Conditions

3.1 Resource Requirements

Ruckus ATPs must meet the resource requirements described in this section.

- Notify examinees and ATPs of test results
- Send certificates to examinees who have passed the exam

To take a retake a certification exam, examinees must register via the Ruckus Training web site.
3.5 Courseware Maintenance and Review

The Ruckus training organization will maintain all training materials for Ruckus courses. This includes the creation of new courses and the revision of existing courses to cover features released in Ruckus product updates.

As part of the course development process, Ruckus ATPs may be invited to review draft versions of course releases during the SME (Subject Matter Expert) Review phase. Any ATPs who elect to participate in the review process will be required to provide their feedback to Ruckus.

With each course release, Ruckus will notify ATPs of updates via e-mail, webinar, and/or pre-recorded online training sessions.

3.6 Access to Courseware

Ruckus will provide ATPs the ability to order the latest printed course manuals to use for training of Ruckus partners, customers, and ATP employees.

All materials related to the ATP program and provided to ATPs for review and training delivery are copyright Ruckus Wireless. All rights are reserved. Content may only be duplicated per the delivery requirements described above.

ATPs are not permitted to

- redistribute electronic copies of courseware
- modify any of the courseware provided by Ruckus
- print Ruckus courseware locally
- use course material for non-authorized Ruckus training

3.7 Printed Training Materials

3.7.1 Course Manuals

ATPs must order printed course manuals from Ruckus at least 3 (three) weeks prior to the class start date for timely delivery. Note: It will take 3-5 business days to print and another 2-5 business days to ship the training manuals.

Access to the Ruckus print-on-demand publishing site will be provided upon completion of the ATP accreditation process.
3.8 Course Scheduling and Registration

Ruckus will maintain a master schedule which will be posted on the Ruckus Training Learning Management System (LMS).

ATPs will post their own class offerings to the Ruckus Training LMS. ATPs are responsible for ensuring that each student has registered for the class through the LMS.

Each student who completes an ATP-provided class must be registered for the corresponding certification exam either by the ATP or by self-registration. ATPs will be responsible for providing each student with an exam code.

ATPs will process registration payments for the classes that they deliver.

ATPs must schedule and deliver at least 1 (one) class per calendar quarter.

ATPs must provide Ruckus-approved printed course manuals to students for every class that is delivered.

3.9 Course Delivery

ATP instructors must deliver Ruckus courses according to standard best practices and instructor competencies. Only Ruckus Certified Instructors (RCIs) are allowed to conduct training, including lecture and lab support.

3.10 Exam Delivery

Ruckus Wireless certification exams are available online.

Ruckus Wireless requires that students and ATPs adhere to a standard code of conduct regarding test taking and test integrity. If students are offered the opportunity to take exams at the ATP facility, the ATP instructor must proctor exams taken to ensure that test integrity is maintained. Any ATP found to be facilitating a violation in standard exam regulations, is subject to termination of their ATP accreditation.

3.11 Student Satisfaction Scores

At the end of every Ruckus course delivered by an ATP, all students are required complete a Training Survey on the Ruckus LMS. It is the ATP Instructor’s responsibility to notify the students of the survey and enable participation.

ATPs must maintain an acceptable average class score as defined in the signed ATP-03 ATP Agreement.

3.12 ATP Pilot Class and Audit

The ATP will be identified as “Provisional” until the first public (pilot) class has been delivered successfully, and training partner notifies Ruckus in writing verifying successful completion of the pilot class. This class must be delivered within 4 months of both parties signing the “ATP-03 ATP Agreement” document. The ATP may be suspended if no class is delivered within the first 4 months. The ATP will granted an additional 4 months to remediate their suspended status to active by delivering their first class. The ATP will be terminated if no class is delivered after a total of 8 months.
A Ruckus-designated auditor may attend the pilot class to verify that the ATP resource requirements and terms of the training partnership are met.

After obtaining ATP accreditation, Ruckus also reserves the right to audit 1 (one) ATP class per year at no charge.

3.13 Termination of Accreditation

Ruckus and the training partner both reserve the right to terminate the ATP accreditation by providing 30 days written notice to the other party, or through termination of the Ruckus Partner agreement. No new classes will be scheduled for the ATP after notice has been given. Immediate termination may result due to non-compliance of the ATP terms and conditions.

After termination:

- Ruckus is under no further obligation to deliver the benefits of the ATP program.
- The former training partner is no longer permitted to deliver Ruckus training courses.
- The former training partner must erase all electronic copies of Ruckus courseware stored on their computer systems.
